Rising Hunger And Our Country: India is growing more food but also wasting up to 67 million tons of it every year!

Rani- A desperate 49 year old woman from Chennai says "I feed mice to my two year old granddaughter."

This story from South India is a small trailer of those who have experienced and survived extreme hunger. India is home to the largest number of hungry people in the world. In the ranking of global hunger index 2021, India covered position 101 out of 121 where as in 2022, the rank has fallen to 107 (out of 121) - lowest among all South Asian countries (except Afghanistan). Economy, climate change, unemployment, the COVID 19 pandemic have lead to steep rise in hunger in our country. Over 20 crore Indians go to sleep empty stomach everyday. Prevalence of undernourishment in India is 14.8%, higher than the both global and Asian average. As mentioned earlier, climate change is one of the factor that contribute to rise in hunger, due to which estimated food production could drop 16% and the number of those at risk for hunger could increase 23% by 2023. 70% of Indians cannot afford a healthy diet; rising food prices and unemployment have fueled this trend upwards. It is depressing that despite India is producing sufficient food to feed its population it is unable to provide access to food to a large number of people.

Every problem has a solution; the first step is awareness and acceptance. Key points in order to overcome the issue of hunger in India are reaching the neediest, paving the way from farm to market, reducing food waste and encouraging the cultivation of sustainable range of crops.

The amount of food wasted in our country is staggering. According to a Government study, India is growing more food but also wasting up to 67 million tons of it every year! The value of food lost Rs. 92,000 Cr, is nearly two thirds of what it cost the government to feed 600 million poor Indians. Food is wasted on daily basis which requires the intervention of governments and individuals in order to prevent it, such as passing a bill that makes it compulsory for supermarkets, cafes and restaurants to donate the leftover food instead of disposing and destroying the unsold food. Forming a chain that distributes this left over food to the needy people. Sometimes the easiest way to solve a problem is to stop participating in the problem i-e. the food wastage can be monitored and reduced on the individual level. Other solution is to go-green and be self - sufficient by growing a kitchen garden or producing the vegetables at home using simple methods most of which are available online.

Using technology for solving the problem can help to a great extent. Recorders and analyzers can be installed in bins that can monitor the amount of food wasted which can be analyzed by the chef and used to adjust the amount of groceries they buy. This process, whether for industrial kitchens or corporate cafeteria's help chefs improve their "food production processes", "save money and reduce our environment footprint". Use of biotechnology can also help in eradicating hunger to greater extent and decreasing the ratio of malnourished people. Small steps in the right direction; creates big impact!

SURGERY
 SURGERY SURGERY SURGEY,
 IT HAS BECOME A TRAGEDY,
 KNEE TO HIP EYE TO LIP
 IT'S EITHER CHIP OR CLIP,
 LENSES ARE CHANGED,
 TEETH ARE RE-ARRANGED,
 LIVER GET'S A TRANSPLANT,
 BREAST GET'S AN IMPLANT,
 HEART UNDERGOES A PLASTY,
 SKIN TIGHTENS UP IT'S ELASTY
 UTERUS IS REMOVED,
 OVARIES ARE SAVED,
 SPINES ARE STRAIGHTENED,
 CATARACT'S ARE BRIGHTENED,
 KIDNEY STILL WORKS
 WHEN IT IS ONE,
 IF BLADDER FAILS,
 THE WORK IS HALF DONE,
 SO THE BODY SAYS TO THE DOCTOR
 MUJH PAR EK AHASAAN KARNA,
 KI MUJH PAR KOI UNWANTED SURGERY NA KARNA

Daughter - A pride

The one who's smile cheers up the house,
 A daughter is a God's blessing in disguise

Carrying her Father's hope in her heart,
 She takes birth with a promise to never be apart

The one who defines love and strength for her mother,
 She is the one who never lets anyone bother

Nothing would feel right if she is upset,
 She is the foundation of a relation with an unbreakable thread

Daughters are the parents pride Everyday
